Who We Are

Ontario Health Coalition represents more than half-a-million Ontarians in its network of 400 member organizations, Local Health Coalitions and individual members. Our members include: seniors' groups; patients' organizations; unions; nurses and health professionals' organizations; physicians and physician organizations that support the public health system; non-profit community agencies; ethnic and cultural organizations; residents' and family councils; retirees; poverty and equality-seeking groups; women's organizations, and others.

Mission and Mandate

Our primary goal is to protect and improve our public health care system. We work to honour and strengthen the principles of the Canada Health Act. We are led by our shared commitment to core values of equality, democracy, social inclusion and social justice; and by the five principles of the Act: universality; comprehensiveness; portability; accessibility and public administration. We are a non-partisan public interest activist coalition and network.

To this end, we empower the members of our constituent organizations to become actively engaged in the making of public policy on matters related to our public health care system and healthy communities. We seek to provide to member organizations and the broader public ongoing information about our health care system and its programs and services, and to protect our public health system from threats such as cuts, delisting and privatization. Through public education and support for public debate, we contribute to the maintenance and extension of a system of checks and balances that is essential to good decision-making. We are an extremely collaborative organization, actively working with others to share resources and information.

Introduction & Key Findings

After watching horror-struck as among the worst death rates in the world devastated Ontario's long-homes during the pandemic, Ontarians were promised fundamental change. Three thousand, eight hundred and sixty-five long-term care residents – human beings who were loved, whose lives mattered -- died in the first 12 months from COVID-19 alone.<sup>1</sup> Many others suffered unspeakably for want of food, water and basic medical care, lack of human contact, isolation and depression, and many ultimately did not survive these conditions. The Canadian Armed Forces described in visceral terms the unconscionable quality of life and care in the long-term care homes into which they were sent to provide emergency aid. At the time of writing this report, a year and three-quarters since the first known long-term care outbreak, more than 4,023 residents and at least 10 staff have died as a result of COVID-19 alone.<sup>2</sup> It is the worst long-term care mass casualty in our province's history.

While health and safety issues were unquestionably worsened by COVID-19, in many ways the pandemic threw into sharp relief the systemic negligence that had put private for-profit interests, tax cuts, and decades of public spending curtailments before the quality and sufficiency of care for the elderly. Repeated academic studies published in peer reviewed journals had found that for-profit long-term care is worse than public and non-profit long-term care across a whole range of measures and outcomes. Yet Ontario adopted and pursued policies promoting for-profit privatization. Advocacy organizations like the Ontario Health Coalition, Concerned Friends, the Advocacy Centre for the Elderly and long-term care workers' and nurses' unions fought from the late 1990s on to overcome the industry's lobby against comprehensive annual surprise inspections, and for improved levels of care, including enforceable minimum care standards.<sup>3</sup> At the same time as increasingly complex "patients" were offloaded from public hospitals into long-term care, the labour force was restructured to reduce the cost of staffing and transfer the burden of care increasingly to less trained and lower paid staff. For decades, investigative journalists and advocates decried the lack of accountability for inadequate care, as well as greed and incompetence that had been longstanding issues. Some Health Ministers tried to strengthen public oversight and accountability only to have others weaken it in accordance with the industry lobby.

Now, hopefully with the worst of the pandemic behind us, Ontario is midway through allotting tens of thousands of new beds in 30-year license deals. There is no denying that our province is at a critical juncture. The terrible suffering in the pandemic could have -- and should have—ushered in a new day for Ontario's long-term care sector. Licenses covering approximately 31,000 old outdated beds end in July 2025 and they need to be replaced with newly built homes under new licenses. To be absolutely clear, these are not license renewals. The licenses are ending -- and with them contracts with existing companies to operate the homes end -- and new licenses need to be issued. In addition to replacing the old substandard beds, all of Ontario major political parties have promised tens of thousands of new beds, and there are 15,000 additional new beds slated to be built over 5-years and another 15,000 in the five years following. Thus, a total of approximately 46,000 beds are supposed be built and licensed by approximately 2024/2025 and an additional 15,000 new beds added by 2028-2030.<sup>4</sup> In context, the current total capital stock of long-term care beds in Ontario is approximately 77,000. Thus, the turnover is a huge proportion of the existing stock. The public is paying for all the rebuilds and new builds for these beds in 30-year capital funding deals and operational licenses, whether they are for-profit, non-profit or public (municipal).

<sup>3</sup> Other notable efforts to assert the public interest in long-term care policy were made. Among them: The Ontario Health Coalition and Unifor did the seminal work to expose and address critical staffing shortages that had been worsening in the two years preceding the pandemic resulting in significant and worsening gaps in care. We worked, as did the Ontario Coroner's Geriatric and Long-Term Care Review Committee and some dedicated media, to expose increasing violence in the homes as the complexity of care needs of residents increased and hospital downsizing offloaded more complex residents to homes already stretched without adequate staffing and oversight. Unions spent years advocating for minimum care standards to protect staff and residents alike from inadequate care and impossible workloads. Among those with active campaigns on this issue were CUPE, ONA, OPSEU, SIEU, UFCW, USW, and Unifor. Unions worked tirelessly to improve wages and working conditions and address crushing workloads, extraordinary rates of injury on the job and other telltale signs of exploitation and emergency-level staffing shortages.

However, the promise of a new day is slipping away. Instead of building the 46,000 new and redeveloped long-term care beds under public and non-profit ownership in a new capital development plan, the Ford government is in process of allocating the majority of the new beds to for-profit corporations, and the majority of those to large chain companies. Chief among them are the same chains that were responsible for the worst death rates in the pandemic and terrible records of care over many years.

Many of the projects have not yet received final approval and the for-profit privatization of them can still be stopped, but it is undeniable that Ontario's Ford government is moving forward with new licenses and expansions covering tens of thousands of beds to the worst of the for-profit operators. These licenses will result in the next generation of privatized for-profit long-term care unless public outrage is sufficient to force the government to stop it.

This report should serve as a warning and a call to action. It is not too late, but unless the Ford government is stopped, they are in process of setting up Ontario for another entire generation of for-profit long-term care.

<sup>4</sup> The construction of new beds is behind and the Financial Accountability Office of Ontario, an independent office that reports to the Ontario Legislature, reports that the new beds may be delayed by up to 1.5 years.

<sup>5</sup> There is some confusion because the Ford government has reannounced beds allocated by the previous Liberal government. We have included the Liberal government bed allocations (see Ontario Budgets 2017 & 2018) in a separate chart. The list of the previous Liberal government's bed allocations is in Appendix 2.

1. Extencicare	1,936	Extencicare has more than double the pandemic death rate of public (municipal) homes with a death rate of 3.6 residents per 100.<sup>6</sup> A CBC analysis of inspection reports during the second wave of the pandemic found that Extencicare was cited for the most violations of infection control and prevention directives. Homes owned by the company accounted for 13 per cent of the provincial total of 60 violations. When homes the company manages are included, that increases to 22 per cent of the violations.<sup>7</sup> Families at a number of Extencicare homes have complained of severe dehydration, failure to provide medical care, dangerous understaffing and horrific conditions in the homes. Extencicare is the subject of a mass tort legal action that predates the pandemic brought by families including one that found a cockroach in bed with her mother who was routinely left “wet and dirty”, according to the family’s claim.<sup>8</sup> Thomson Rogers and Will Davidson LLP are working together to advance a class action proceeding claiming $200 million on behalf of residents of long-term care homes owned and/or operated and/or managed by Extencicare.<sup>9</sup> A number of Extencicare homes, including those up for expansions/new licenses appear in the top 30 long-term care homes with the most reported violations in inspections reports over the last 5-years.<sup>10</sup> Unlike Ontario, which is in the process of awarding Extencicare with the most beds of any single corporation, Saskatchewan’s government is ending its contracts with all its Extencicare-run homes and is making them public. At Extencicare’s Parkside home in Saskatchewan 194 of 198 residents contracted COVID-19 along with 132 staff. Thirty-nine residents died.<sup>11</sup> According to the ombudsman report, during the Parkside outbreak, health authority officials left one December 2020 meeting with Extencicare concerned that the company's "corporate leaders were taking an arm's length approach and were providing only minimal corporate support to its local staff."<sup>12</sup>

Protections Against Privatization & Negligence/Incompetence

Ontarians do have some protections in law that should have prevented this scenario.

After the Harris government awarded the majority of 20,000 new long-term care beds they tendered from 1998 – 2001 to for-profits, the Liberal government took power in 2003 and subsequently rewrote Ontario's long-term care legislation. The Ontario Health Coalition and others pushed for stronger protections against companies with poor records being given licenses. There had already been two major chain bankruptcies in Ontario<sup>40</sup> and major exposes in the United States about for-profit long-term care corporations and litigation for deaths from dehydration and fraudulent billing. Yet companies like Extencare had been granted licenses to operate new homes in Ontario. Extencare had sold its holdings and left the United States after a giant settlement with the US Department of Justice. This is how the Department of Justice described it:

“Extencare Health Services Inc. (Extencare) and its subsidiary Progressive Step Corporation (ProStep) have agreed to pay $38 million to the United States and eight states to resolve allegations that Extencare billed Medicare and Medicaid for materially substandard nursing services that were so deficient that they were effectively worthless and billed Medicare for medically unreasonable and unnecessary rehabilitation therapy services, the Justice Department and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Inspector General (HHS-OIG) jointly announced today. This resolution is the largest failure of care settlement with a chain-wide skilled nursing facility in the department's history.”<sup>41</sup>

The U.S. Department of Justice settlement followed years of litigation against Extencare in which the company had sold off its holdings and moved out of Florida, Texas<sup>42</sup> and Kentucky<sup>43</sup>. In fact, in 2001, the Conservative government of Mike Harris awarded Extencare licenses to construct 11 long-term care homes<sup>44</sup> just after a 1999 Florida jury had found Extencare guilty of negligence and falsifying care records and awarded $U.S. 20 million against Extencare, the highest such judgement in the state's history. Soon after, Extencare sold its nursing homes in Florida and Texas, left those states, and expanded in Ontario.<sup>45</sup>

In order to protect Ontarians from companies with records of poor care, negligence and fraud, the Liberals strengthened requirements in their new Long-Term Care Homes Act requiring the Ontario government promote non-profit (including publicly owned) long-term care. Further, they reinforced provisions regarding awarding of licenses to operate beds. The legislation now requires that the government make its licensing decisions based on the operational records of applicants in providing care; including whether they are competent, operate in accordance with the law and with integrity, and have operated without compromising the health and welfare of the residents for whom they are responsible. Despite this, the Ford government is in the process of allocating the highest proportions of bed licenses to chain companies with among the worst pandemic death rates in the province and poor operational records stretching back for years. writing this report, the Ford government is also in the process of changing the legislation to seek to remove the impediments in the law to facilitate this.<sup>46</sup>

The Ford government has not published a comprehensive list of the new beds and rebuilds available to the public. The following report contains a list of all of the licenses in process that we have been able to find, including new beds and rebuilds by ownership type and corporation name/municipality. In Appendix 1 there is a full list of licenses in process by region and city/town. In total, we were able to find licenses covering 30,486 beds in process announced by the Ford government and 2,282 beds in process announced by the previous Liberal government that have been reannounced by the Ford government. Of the 30,486 beds announced by the Ford government the majority – 16,304—are in process of being allocated to for-profit corporations. A minority are in process of being awarded to non-profit (10,990) and public (2,918) entities.

Full information about whether each of these projects has been given final approval is not available. Many are in process and not finalized. Thus, they could be stopped. The Ontario government's long-term care consultation website contains only a partial list of projects for which approvals are complete and a list of projects for which consultations are in process. There is no publicly available list of projects that have not yet reached the stage of public consultation and those that have been approved and subsequently dropped off the government website. We have included all the information that we could find regarding where the projects are in the approvals process.

<sup>46</sup> The Ford government has changed the requirement that the Ontario government be committed to promoting non-profit long-term care only, in the Preamble of the Long-Term Care Homes Act (2007) so that it will allow the government to promote for-profit long-term care also. It is also changing the language of the Licensing section of the Act to seek to remove the requirement that the government only award licenses when companies meet the eligibility criteria including competence, integrity, honesty, operating record in compliance with the law, safety of residents etc.

A Closer Look: Protections Against Privatization & Poor Performers

Under Ontario's Long-Term Care Homes Act (2007) the Minister and the Ministry are required to make bed allocations in accordance with the preamble of the legislation and several clauses in the law that are meant to protect the public interest. When that Act was being created, the Ontario Health Coalition and other advocacy groups advocated for policies that would protect the public from bad actors being issued licenses. The Liberal government include an array of protection in the Act, as follows:

- The Ontario government is committed to promoting non-profit long-term care (in the Preamble which is to guide the interpretation of the Act);
- Section 96 requires the Minister to determine whether there is a need for the LTC home in the area having regard to the public interest;
- Section 97 similarly allows the Minister to restrict who can be issued a license, considering factors like control or management of LTCs and the balance between non-profit and for-profit providers [and under the preamble the government is committed to promoting non-profit, which includes public (municipal) ownership];
- Section 98 requires the Director [in the Ministry of LTC] to determine if an applicant for a license is eligible to be issued one. This is decided according to a closed list of factors, which requires that:
  - (a) the home and its operation would comply with this Act and the regulations and any other applicable Act, regulation or municipal by-law;
  - (b) the past conduct relating to the operation of a long-term care home or any other matter or business of the following affords reasonable grounds to believe that the home will be operated in accordance with the law and with honesty and integrity; ...
  - (c) it has been demonstrated ... that the [applicant] ... is competent to operate a long-term care home in a responsible manner in accordance with this Act and the regulations and is in a position to furnish or provide the required services;
  - (d) the past conduct relating to the operation of a long-term care home or any other matter or business of the following affords reasonable grounds to believe that the home will not be operated in a manner that is prejudicial to the health, safety or welfare of its residents; ... and
  - (e) the person is not ineligible because of any other reason that may be provided for in the regulations.

Critically, the focus of s. 98 is backward-looking and because of that, it is almost entirely concerned with the past conduct and record of the applicant. Section 98 also uses the conjunction "and" between the factors that the Director must consider, which means that an applicant must meet all of these conditions to be approved for a license.

- Finally, before issuing a license or an undertaking, the Director must consult the public (s. 106).<sup>1</sup>

Changes to the Act in process by the Ford government:

The Ford government has introduced a new bill to replace the existing Long-Term Care Homes Act (2007) currently in the process of being passed by their majority. In that new bill, the following changes are proposed:

- Preamble is being changed to include the provision that the government can promote "mission driven" long-term care homes as well as non-profit (and public) long-term care homes. Following this, all long-term care homes are being required to have a mission statement and thus be considered mission driven, including all the for-profits. In this way, the Ford government is seeking to eliminating the requirement that it promote non-profit (and public) long-term care only.
- Changes to the licensing section to remove the requirement that the Ministry issue licenses only when eligibility criteria are met requiring competence, honesty, integrity, a good operating record, health and welfare of residents etc.

How We Got Here

In 1998, for the first time in Canadian history, Ontario's Conservative provincial government led by Mike Harris created a policy that provided for-profit long-term care corporations with public funds to build long-term care homes that they would then own and operate for their own profit.<sup>47</sup> The plan was to cut thousands of hospital beds, then put 20,000 long-term care beds out to tender. Those who won the tenders would build the long-term care homes and be paid back for the construction costs over 20-years in per deims set by the province.<sup>48</sup> They would also get a 20-year operational license, with revenue streams for personal care, food, accommodations, programs and services and additional funding pools from the province. In addition, they would get residents' fees for their room and board, and they were virtually guaranteed to have full homes because even in 1998 waiting lists across Ontario for long-term care already numbered 18,000.<sup>49</sup> At the same time, capital grants for municipalities and non-profits to build homes were cancelled.<sup>50</sup> (Prior to 1998, municipalities and non-profits could access a 50% capital grant from the province to build long-term care homes.) The non-profit long-term care sector complained from the beginning that the Harris government's capital development scheme was set up for the for-profits.<sup>51</sup>

With the new capital funding policy in place, the Harris government proceeded to tender 20,000 long-term care beds. More than two-thirds of the new beds were awarded to for profits with almost 40 percent of those going to Extencicare, Leisureworld and CPL REIT.<sup>52</sup> Thus, the balance -- which had, until then, favoured public and non-profit ownership-- was tipped and the majority ownership of Ontario's long-term sector became for-profit. Mike Harris left office in 2001 and subsequently became the chair of Chartwell,<sup>53</sup> a for-profit chain.<sup>54</sup> Ernie Eves, Mike Harris' Finance Minister left office in 2001 and a month later it was announced he would join the board of RREIT (which bought CPL REIT) one of the prime beneficiaries of the capital funding program set up by the Harris government. Ernie Eves later returned to politics to become Mike Harris' successor as premier.<sup>55</sup> Previous Conservative Premier Bill Davis became the chair of for-profit LTC chain Revera in 2001 and served as chair emeritus until his death.

The basic structure of the Harris government's capital development plan has continued ever since. The Liberals increased the subsidies for developments and redevelopments twice to try to incentivize older homes (majority for-profit) to redevelop. They also extended the licenses -- 20-year licenses became 30-years (see Appendix 4). The Ford government has increased the subsidies for bed developments and redevelopments twice again since it took office.

The Next Generation of Ontario's Long-Term Care Licenses

Prior to the pandemic, Ontario had more than 78,000 long-term care beds and 57% of our province's long-term care homes were for-profit.<sup>56</sup> After the first wave of COVID-19 the province set new policy to end 3- and 4- bed shared rooms. The province is requiring homes to reduce overcrowding by attrition. New residents cannot be admitted to rooms that have more than two beds. This has reduced the total capital stock to approximately 77,000.

According to Ministry data, there are approximately 5,600 "B" beds and approximately 24,700 "C" beds for a total of approximately 30,300 outdated beds with licenses that end in July 2025. (See Appendix 4 for details.) The majority of the operators that own these older long-term care homes are for-profit corporations that chose not to upgrade their beds even though the provincial government offered them increasing amounts of public money as an incentive to do so.

Building standards for long-term care beds were updated in 1998 by the Harris government and again in 2015 by the Liberal government. There has not been an update by the Ford government prior to the building of all of the new and redeveloped beds to the standards to reflect post-pandemic learning or even promised initiatives such as air conditioning in all resident rooms.

It takes approximately 3-years from the signing of a development agreement with an operator to the long-term care bed being put into operation. With the 15,000 new beds that are supposed to be completed by 2025, there is a total of approximately 46,000 beds that are supposed to be allocated over the next year (including those that are in process now).

Extencicare Kingston - Project #21-015 (Kingston)

Extencicare Kingston (for-profit) will be adding 42 new spaces in addition to transfer and upgrade 150 eligible spaces (previous allocated). This will result in 192-bed building at a new site located at 700 Gardiners Road in Kingston.<sup>85</sup> The consultation for this proposal has closed but no decision has been announced, according to the Ministry of Long-Term Care Consultation website.<sup>86</sup> However, in a post dated August 26, 2021, Extencicare announced the ground breaking for the project, stating that it is going ahead and thanking the Ford government for its support.<sup>87</sup>

Extencicare Homes in Ottawa

Extencicare is planning on demolishing five of their homes in Ottawa when their licenses expire in 2025. They plan to move any existing residents from these homes into new homes they are building. Some of the new homes will be on the site of the previous homes and some will be in new locations. Extencicare currently has two proposals for new buildings. The four homes that they are planning on redevelop are<sup>88</sup>:

Extendicare - Ottawa #2 (Ottawa)

Extendicare (for-profit) has proposed to upgrade 192 existing spaces in Ottawa. The project is called Extendicare - Ottawa #2.<sup>94</sup> Considering that Extendicare Starwood has 192 “C” class beds expiring in 2025, it is reasonable to assume that this project is a redevelopment of Extendicare Starwood.

Extendicare Stittsville (Ottawa)

Extendicare Stittsville (for-profit) has proposed to upgrade 256 existing spaces.<sup>95</sup> In the public consultation it has been stated that the 256 beds will come from other Extendicare homes in Ottawa: 240 from West End Villa, 8 from Starwood and 8 from Medex. The public consultation has closed on June 27 2021.<sup>96</sup>

Extendicare Peterborough - Project #20-007 (Peterborough)

Extendicare Peterborough (for-profit) will be adding 84 new beds and upgrade 172 beds to create a new 256-bed home at a new location in Peterborough. The license proposal is for a term of up to 30 years. The consultation for this proposal has closed but no decision has been announced.<sup>9798</sup>

Extendicare - Port Stanley (Port Stanley)

Extendicare - Port Stanley (for-profit) has proposed to build 68 new and upgrade existing 60 spaces.<sup>99</sup>

Orchard Villa was one of the five homes in which the Canadian Armed Forces intervened in May 2020. The home was significantly understaffed and at one point, was operating on only 20% of its full staffing complement. After being called in to assist with the situation, the Canadian Armed Forces also published a scathing report on the conditions witnessed including residents of the home being left for hours in soiled diapers, on bare mattresses, improper feeding. Other findings detailed included the presence of cockroaches and flies in the facility, presence of foul odors emanating from spoiled foods, patient's hydration schedules not being adhered to and important belongings of residents not being within their reach.

APPENDIX 4. Ontario's long-term care bed classification system

For a full list of Ontario's long-term care beds by classification (as described below) please go to:
<https://www.ontariohealthcoalition.ca/wp-content/uploads/LTC-Design-Classification-August-2019.pdf>

Structural Classification and term of license information from:
http://www.health.gov.on.ca/en/pro/programs/lcredev/docs/licensing\_overview\_lhin\_presentation.pdf

As at March/April 2015:

- All Municipal Homes have Minister's approval with no term.
- For-profits & Non-profits License with fixed terms. Term varies by the structural classification of the LTC home.
- All licenses start from 2010. Thus terms calculated from July 1, 2010.

Structural Classification Term of License

New Beds - Built since 1998 to current design standards. License Term: 30 years (thus ends 2040 or if they were built after 2010 then the license would be longer- it is from the date they open). There are 39,508 New/D retrofit beds.

A Beds – Built prior to 1998, but almost meet current standards. License Term: 20 + 5 years (thus end 2030/35). There are 6,986 A beds.

B Beds – Substantially exceed 1972 standards but do not meet A bed criteria. License Term: 15 years (thus end 2025). There are 5,628 B beds.

C Beds – Meet 1972 design standards. License Term: 15 years (thus end 2025). There are 24,695 C beds.

D Upgrades – Upgraded through the 2002 D Bed program but do not meet the 1972 design standards License Term: 10 years (thus end 2020). There are 1,346 D upgrade beds.

D Beds – Do not meet 1972 design standards. All licenses expired. There are no D beds left.

Not included in this chart: There are also ELDCAP beds (all in public hospitals total 270 of them).

Total beds at August 2019: 78,433
